

The daily dozen

Q: Telstra plans to close its Wollongong call centre - should the centre be retained?

Wayne Robinson, Woonona

Yes - we should be looking to keep jobs locally.

Glen Robertson, Wollongong

It takes long enough to get through as it is - moving the centre further away will just make things worse.

Brian Phillips, Balgownie

For sure - whenever you ring up you have trouble. Eventually they'll just move the whole thing offshore and it will be even worse.

Mick Maffulo, Port Kembla

We need to keep jobs locally, no matter what industry.

Sandra Hull, Wollongong

The plan to close the call centre stinks - we should be keeping it in Wollongong.

Ted Walton, Towradgi

Of course they should - it provides local employment and a better service.

Colin Mylonas, Wedderburn

They shouldn't be closing it - it's going to take jobs away from Wollongong, and there will be less people to support our businesses.

Ben Innamorati, Wollongong

Closing the call centre is a terrible idea.

Bill Terderbeek, Wollongong

Everything should be done to keep the centre in Wollongong.

Scott Boyd, Russell Vale

We should be keeping it in Wollongong - too many things have been closed down already.

William Ward, Wollongong

That's shocking - it should be kept open.

Willy Alarcon, Lake Heights

It should be kept open for the sake of local jobs, but who knows whether that arrangement benefits Telstra?
